Korte beschrijving van de opdracht:

When a physician looks at medical images the layout and adjustments should be different depending on the type of examination. There are a lot of communalities, but also a lot of personal preferences in how a physician want that layout to be.

Hence it would be nice if there is an easy to use interface that allows a user to define a layout and the image adjustments a user wants for a certain type of examinations.

You'll work on this assignment as part of our PACSonWEB scrum team.
